

ABOUT BRUCE

I am a certified mental health counselor associate with a background in community mental health agencies, advocacy counseling, mentoring and mediation in the schools, older adult programs, and case management.

I come from an ancestry of teachers, so it's not surprising that my career work in education is so integral to my work as a therapist. I taught across a uniquely broad spectrum of primary, secondary and graduate levels, and it's why I believe so strongly that we as adults need to hear from our inner kid.

Active imagination and creativity are a part of us. My work as a writer, director, and composer for regional theaters around the country helps keep me connected to the deeper, mysterious workings of the human psyche. And it's fun!

I am affiliated with <http://www.counselingseattle.com> where you can go to find out more about me and the work I do.
